Buying Tips

Shape

Pod, seeds and berries should be unbroken and uniform in shape & texture. They should be fully developed, not immature or over ripe. They should be well rounded, look for minimal malformed or empty pods.

Color

Should be uniform, vibrant and bright; not dull and flat.

Smell

Smell should be consistent for the respective spice or herb. Odor should not be musty or flat.

Taste

The taste should not be bitter.

Dried Fruits Range

While preserving the taste and color of the juicy Sri Lankan fruits, you can have just real, live fruit in all its glory. Flavors that will make your mouth water and your heart sing. So, the next time you're hankering for something to snack on, grab your sense of adventure and let's do the thing right.

Health benefits of Fruit Juice

Mango

Mangoes contain vitamin C and soluble fiber. They also contain plant compounds with antioxidant and anti-inflammatory effects.

Pineapple

Pineapple is rich in vitamin C and manganese. Its bromelain content may fight inflammation and reduce the risk of cancer.

Watermelon

Watermelon is high in water, nutrients and antioxidants. It is also particularly high in a powerful antioxidant called lycopene.

Papaya

Papaya is nutrient dense and rich in antioxidants. Eating it may reduce your risk of cancer and improve digestion.

Pomegranate

Pomegranates have wide-ranging health benefits. They are incredibly high in antioxidants that can help reduce inflammation and prevent disease.

Essential Oil Range

Live a healthier, and a happier life with the therapeutic aroma of pure essential oils. At CHL, we source the best essential oils directly from farms around the world, giving you the ultimate pleasure of aromatherapy right at your home.

Gardening Tips

Start BIG in a small area...

You can start Bio-Intensive Gardening (BIG) in small space as long as it is exposed to sunlight 6 hours a day.

Start with soil...

Healthy soil means healthy plants. You will have less pests and diseases. Planting legumes such as beans at least once a year, will help fertilize soil. Mulching protects soil from wind, strong rain and heat.

Make raised deep dug beds...

Deep dug beds allow soil to store more water and conserve microbial life (i.e. earthworms). It encourages plant roots to grow deeper making the plant tough to withstand changing weather conditions.

To have vegetables all year round...

Indigenous vegetables are more drought-tolerant and require less care. Having 8-10 different crops ensures year round supply of vegetables. Diverse garden is one way to control pests.

Plant Gliciridia trees...

Plant trees like easier to access months after and allow the branches and "cooling effect"

Gliciridia sepium around the garden makes it organic fertilizer. Branches are cut after 9-12 planting. Place the branches on garden plots leaves to fall off. In 3-4 days' time, remove incorporate the leaves in soil. Trees provide and can serve as barrier against strong wind.

Save seeds for next planting season...

Save seeds from your plants now. Harvest seeds that are mature and dry them well. Store them in airtight containers and inspect it regularly for damages.
